THE FAULTS OF OTHERS

In speaking of another's faults
Pray don't forget your own;
He who lives in house of glass
Should never throw a stone.
If we have nothing else to do
But talk of those who sin,
The better that we look at home,
And wish that place begin.
We have no right to judge a man
Unless we have been tried;
Should we not like his company
We know the world is wide.
We have faults and who has not,
The old as well as young;
We may perhaps, for all we know,
Have fifty to their one.

I'll tell you a better plan,
I know it works full well,
To try your own defects to cure
Before of others tell.
And though I hope some time to be
No worse than some I know,
My own shortcomings bid me let
The faults of others go.

GOOD EATING.

Anybody who is fortunate enough to have a ham to boil should use every caution to have it well cooked and well seasoned, for ham is ham these days.

Soak the ham overnight and in the morning put to cook covered with sweet cider. Into the kettle with the ham add some leaves and root of celery, an onion stock with a dozen cloves, a dozen peppercorns, a couple of bay leaves, and lacking cider, a cupful of vinegar and three tablespoonfuls of brown sugar added to cold water.

When the liquid comes to a slow boil, let the kettle be set back where it will just simmer until it is done. The time allowed for cooking will depend upon the size of the ham. If it is overcooked and falls to pieces when cut it is ruined. Cool the ham in the liquor in which it was cooked. Skin the ham, spread with brown sugar, dot with cloves and bake in the oven until brown. Serve hot or cold cut in waferlike slices. A dish fit for an epicure.

Rice and Sultana Croquettes.—Pick the stems from a cupful of sultana raisins; wash a cupful of rice and add three cupfuls of milk; cook until the rice is tender, adding a half teaspoonful of salt. When tender, add the yolks of two eggs, one-fourth of a cupful of sugar and butter and a little spice; mix well and set aside to become cool. Form in balls, dip in egg, roll in crumbs and fry one minute in deep fat. Serve with.

Orange Sabayon Sauce.—Beat one whole egg with two yolks until thoroughly mixed; add half a cupful of sugar and beat again. Add half a cupful of orange juice and the juice of half a lemon. Set over boiling water and cook until it thickens slightly. Turn at once into a cold dish.

Casserole Calves' Hearts.—Fry an onion in a few slices of bacon; roll four calves' hearts in seasoned flour and brown them all over. Put in a hot casserole, add a cupful of stock, a shredded pimento, and half a teaspoonful of mixed spices. Cover the dish tightly, then bake for two hours. Serve garnished with the bacon.

Many a woman's idea of the truth is the disagreeable things she hears about her neighbors.

It's a man's nature to crave power, and if he can't bully another man or a dog he gets married.

Every mother knows that all the bad children in the neighborhood belong to the neighbors.

After fortune knocks at a man's door he may be able to prove an alibi—but what's the use?

It is easier to keep a good-for-nothing dog in the house than it is to keep the wolf from the door.

Down in their hearts wise men know the truth: The only way to help yourself is to help others.

All the world's a stage, with the free lid absolutely suspended during this engagement.

Reformed

"I have given up smoking," said the pink-cheeked young man, taking a seat near the pretty teacher.

"Very sensible," said the pretty teacher, approvingly.

"Yes," said the young man, "and I have also cut out billiards and pool. No use wasting time that way. I intend to devote my time to more serious things."

"Well, don't let us keep you from any of those useful occupations," suggested the professor, as he established himself in the next nearest seat to the teacher.

"I don't know," put in the boy's, taking up a standing position in front of the schoolman, "there being no seats left near enough."

No, professor, that a fellow can go too strong in this reform business. Now, here are these fishes that have no eyes because they have always lived in the dark and haven't used their eyes. That's a fact isn't it?"

"Certainly," answered the professor, proudly. "Nature eliminates faculties which are not put to use."

"Just what I thought," continued the boy's. "That's what Slick Dick Nickerson, the captain of the Silly's, Sue, used to say. He said if you was going to be a pirate to keep on pirating, for if a fish stayed on land long enough he was liable to get drowned the first time it rained."

"Slick Dick used to tell about a man named Shockem, who was a gambler and green goods man, who took a sudden notion to reform and go to work and make an honest living. He had risen as high in his profession as he could. He had robbed robbers. But when he took a notion to reform he reformed and reformed big. He passed up the whole game. After he had been earning an honest living for a few years his thoughts got so innocent and pure that he was an easy mark for every grafter and every crook that might come along."

"This fellow got so easy and unsuspicious and green that the newsboys got to trimming him in three corners penny matching games. He played the twenty-six game for cigars, and would even take a chance on a raffle or go into a prize contest."

"Just what occupation did this character follow during the days of his honesty while he was acquiring innocence?" asked the pink-cheeked young man.

"He was a schoolteacher," answered the boy's.

"Indeed," vouchsafed the professor, grandly, "we instructors are very often able to recognize a fraud when we see one," and he looked at the pretty teacher, and the pink-cheeked young man accepted the cigar the boy's offered.

Oatmeal Nut Crisps.

One egg, one-half tablespoonful butter, one-half cupful sugar, one-quarter teaspoonful salt, one teaspoonful vanilla, one and one-half cupfuls rolled oats, one teaspoonful baking powder. Beat together until light the egg, butter, sugar, salt and vanilla. Then stir in the oatmeal and baking powder mixed together. Drop half teaspoonful portions of this mixture a couple of inches apart in a shallow, well-greased baking pan and bake in a moderate oven until light brown. Remove to plates at once to become cool and crisp.

Corn Dumplings.

Make a stew from a cheap cut of meat cut into small pieces, with the desired amount of carrots, onions and potatoes. Pour enough boiling water over a cupful of cornmeal to make a soft dough; let cool; then mix in one cupful of flour sieved with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder; add one egg and mix thoroughly; form into small round balls and put them into the stew for the last 25 minutes of cooking.

Dish up on a hot platter, pour the gravy over all and arrange the dumplings around as a border. These will take the place of bread at the meal. These corn dumplings are especially nice served with chicken potpie accompanied by either jelly or a relish.

New Name for 'Em.

The head of an East End household had no sooner arrived at home the other evening than he was sent forth with to see "what in the world" was the matter with the furnace, says the Indianapolis News. His derby hat encountered the top of the door leading into the basement with the result that the hat received a good sized "stove" in the front.

As he emerged from the basement after a tussle with the offending heating plant he was met with a shout of laughter by the six-year-old heir to the family fortune.

"Gee, mother!" exclaimed the boy. "Look! dad's got a dimple in his hat."

MAKING MORE CLOSET ROOM

Piano Box, Camouflaged to Make It Appear to Be an Ornamental Screen, Solves Difficulty.

In a house where closet and storage space were unsatisfactory, these arrangements helped:

A second rod was placed across one closet about three inches from the ceiling. On this were hung the less frequently worn garments and a pole with a hook on the end was used to reach them.

In the top of another closet a pulley was set and a large trunk was thereby hoisted out of the way.

Two corners of a large, closetless room were fitted with shelves with curtains in front and rods for coat hangers beneath. These differed from the ordinary makeshift closet in being only 5 1/2 feet from the floor, and of such size that the large bureau and chest, placed diagonally across the corners, hid them entirely from view, and yet permitted free access to them.

In another room a piano box, set on its side in the corner, became a closet, the front being converted into a door, the whole covered in panel effect with conventionally decorated burlap. With strips of molding to separate panels and knobs screwed into the top, it looked to casual observers merely like an ornamental screen. This idea could also be used for a broom and bucket closet on a back porch or outside the back door.

HOW TO MAKE HAIRPIN LACE

Simple Directions Given for Work Which May Be Used in the Place of Hemstitching.

Try making the new hairpin lace and using it in place of hemstitching. Make a loop with thread or crochet cotton in middle of hairpin. Place crochet needle on under side of hairpin, and turn hairpin. Catch thread with crochet hook and draw through loop. With crochet needle in loop in middle of thread of hairpin catch loop around the hairpin. You will then have two loops of thread on crochet needle, then catch thread with needle and pull it through the two. You will have the one loop in middle of hairpin to start again.

If you wish to make a centerpiece of leaves, try this stitch. First work an ordinary stitch from side to side, following the outline on the leaf. A cat stitch is a series of stitches taken from side to side between two lines. After the leaf is filled with cat stitches, take a new thread, and starting up the top of the leaf take two tight buttonhole stitches where the threads cross, then carry the thread across to the next crossed stitches on opposite side and again take two buttonhole stitches. Work back and forth in this way until the leaf is filled. Cover the marked line of the leaf with Kensington outline and it is complete.

NOVEL NOTIONS

Jewelry in all the bright new shades is made of sealing wax into beads and into any shape of article. It is also made over beads, into beads, hatpins, brooches, earrings and other articles. Barbaric and Oriental colored beads are fashioned into necklaces and earrings.

Scarfs made of a broadened metal silk are lined with white and trimmed with fur. Also capes made of velvet and trimmed in the same way with fur or marabout are lined with white or dark colored silk, with large figures in it.

Muffs made of velvet and fur, or silk and fur, are seen. The medium-sized muff is proper for this season. Velvet gowns and suits are combined with white satin.

The sleeveless sweater, hand knitted, is used for the home lounging blouse at this season. They are made of all wool, silk or fiber.

Bustles are in the new gowns and separate skirts. Or the bustle skirts give the same effect.

White satin collars are soutache'd a black.

Banded tassels for the ends of the lashes are liked.

Fluted Swiss in Neckwear.

Fluted Swiss is used frequently in the new neckwear. Many of the colored collars, in violet, green, blue, yellow and gray, are edged with narrow fluted ruffle, and the cuffs that go with them are similarly finished. These colored Swiss collars are worn with dark, both frocks.

A Short But Strong Statement.

Women with backache, rheumatic pains, sore muscles, stiff joints or other symptoms of kidney trouble should read this statement from Mrs. S. C. Small, Clayton, N. M.: "Foley Kidney Pills have done me more good than all other medicines." They strengthen weak kidneys and banish sleep-disturbing bladder ailments. F. A. Morris, Canfield,—adv.
